has consulted a doctor and has been treated at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

At present he is under a doctor's care in the home of his sister, Mrs. Alfred Shanker, Leighton st., Lynn.

Although the blowings are practically continuous, Kozlowski is able to eat fairly well by careful timing and forking between the convulsing gusts, he said today.

CHMIELINSKI INQUEST BEGUN

Inquest into the death of Miss Jeanette Chmielinski, 23-year-old daughter of a banker, was begun in Quincy Court today before Judge Nason.

The girl was killed Thanksgiving morning in the Southern Artery, Quincy, in an auto crash. Her sister, Bernice, 20, was severely injured, and the driver, James G. Ham, also injured, is still in a critical condition.

Coolidge's Pen Made It Great Day on Coast

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 21 (AP)—This is California's greatest day.

There were stumps up the expression of joy heard every where in Southern California when the news spread that President Coolidge had signed the Boulder Dam bill.

Public officials, business men, industrial leaders and others joined in the declaration that the signing of the President spelled prosperity and progress in unqualified degree.

WEST REJECTS SALT CREEK OIL BIDS

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—Secretary West today rejected all bids for government oil from the Salt Creek field, Wyoming, because the highest bidder refused to make bond and give information requested by the department, and then entered into a contract with the White House.

The Interior Department announced that the sale of the oil in the Salt Creek and Texas companies for 214 cents per barrel shows the highest priced field price at a private sale was mandatory under the law by which the royalty oil contracts are made.

Man Robs Woman of $600 as She Shows Room to His Pal

Savings of $600 were stolen today from Mrs. Arnes Hamilton, landlady of a lodging house in Concord st., South End, while downtown in Milk st. another thief took an auto truck containing seven radio sets and an electric stove.

Two men encountered in the robbery of Mrs. Hamilton was who, showing one a room while the other, remaining downstairs, filled a desk. The first man then re-entered the room and both departed before she discovered her loss.

The stolen truck was the property of R. F. Smith, owner of a trucking business, and it was parked at the curb for loading.

SCHOOL PUPILS PRESENT GOLD TO POLICEMAN

You could have knocked Jerry the Cop over today by the terrific force of a glittering feather.

Each school day Jerry Connelly, traffic officer of Quincy, has given a salute across Coddingdon st. to the children of the Coddingdon school, and he was alarmed and in belief that some one of his charges had come to harm when he was asked to hurry into the building today.

He was directed to the assembly hall and when he hurried through the doors he found a party going on and discovered that the boys of the school were holding a party.

Boulder Dam Bill Is Signed by Coolidge

To Wed Ryan Heir

Washington society girl shown in this International Newsreel photo will become the bride of Allan A. Ryan, Fortune Ryan, multimillionaire, February 5.

SOUGHT IN LOVE FLIGHT

Josephine Bernati, 16, of Watertown, who vanished while on her way to school, is believed by her mother, Mrs. Vincent Bernati, to have eloped. The mother today asked the police to seek the girl, who is said to have been infatuated with a Newton youth.

50 U. S. Rum Raiders Seize 9 in Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 21 (AP)—The largest local liquor cleanup under federal auspices since the advent of prohibition took place today when 50 dry enforcement officers supervised by H. B. Goodrough, assistant New England administrator, and in company of the police department made 14 raids on alleged speakeasies and saloons. Nine arrests were made and warrants issued for arrest of others. Looters of all kinds valued at several thousand dollars were seized.

Hunt Cook in Slaying

Amherst, Dec. 21 (AP)—Search for Charles MacNeil, wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of George Chapman, was today led to Springfield, Ct., where MacNeil has relatives.

Appeals are pouring in.

Coolidge Praised for His Prompt Approval of Bill

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—President Coolidge's prompt action in signing the Boulder Dam bill received enthusiastic approval from supporters of the measure.

Brockton Bride Sent Home, Youth Is Held

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—A bride couple who eloped a month ago from Brockton, Mass., was separated today by the law and United States authorities. The bride, who turned the bridegroom, Howard Bradley, 24, over to her parents, the bride, Miss Mary, 24, who was held by the police.

Seventeen-year-old Josephine Bernati, pupil in the West junior high school in Watertown, was reported missing today. According to the police, her mother believes she has eloped with a Newton youth.

The mother, Mrs. Vincent Bernati, of Boston st., gave the authorities a description of the girl as having a head in her daughter's description. It seems sufficient of age will be reclaimed from desert war's hands.

Yesterday accompanied by her sister, Marion, 10, but left the younger girl, explaining she was going in another direction to mail a letter. That was the last seen of her by any member of her family.

She is described as five feet, brown hair, of dark complexion, with unbleached black hair, and wearing a brown coat with fur collar, light stockings and black shoes.

The bill is significant for the President conforms in all essential features to the recommendation made by the Interior Department in reports at various times during the past two years. These reports recommended a Federal role of the capacity approved recommended the site adopted and the provisions for a power plant.

The commission also said that the department also had favored the all-American canal and had received no objection from the states and the approval of the Colorado River project of the seven states and the Federal Government.

Lone Girl, Destitute and Cold Finds Warm Niche in Hub's Heart As City Pours Bounty O'er Her

"YOU POOR DEAR, THIS'LL HELP YOU"
Quickly the city's heart struck a responsive chord to her pinched, cold and hungry look. Coins were showered upon her. Food and warming coffee and kindly advice were hers—but she asked for naught!

HEARTS FIND COMMON TIE
Even the lonely little gray squirrel on the Common, with which she shared her last bite, seemed to catch the Christmas spirit and to cheer her on.

MISERY DOES LOVE COMPANY—AND SHE PROVED IT
Miss Coolidge, assigned to get a Christmas spirit story, met a couple of other "ho's" on the Common and they shared "experiences"—and they also offered to share cigarettes or any "pickings" they could find. Read her story. (See story on page 1).

CUSTODY FIGHT OVER GIRL LOST BY GRANDMA

Mrs. Annie L. Hutchins of Somerville today lost her fight to be appointed guardian of her grandchild, Claire Burns, 2, when Judge Campbell in Middlesex Probate Court awarded custody to the child's father, David K. Burns.

The little girl's mother, Mrs. Hutchins' daughter, died in October, and Burns caused a surprise today by declaring on the witness stand that he was to marry "as soon as possible." Mrs. Fannie C. Lane, a widow, of Scituate, Mrs. Lane later testified for him.

The grandmother was sobbing as she was led out of the courtroom after the hearing was over. She had also sobbed when a letter written by her daughter to Burns was read. Mrs. Hutchins had alleged that her daughter, when dying, specified that she should be the guardian because Burns was unfilial, but Judge Campbell said there was no evidence to show the father unfit and, all things being equal, the father must be given custody.

The child will be taken from the grandmother's home to Scituate to live with her father and his second wife. Burns promised to let the grandmother see the girl whenever she goes there, but Judge Campbell, asked by counsel for the grandmother to incorporate this promise in his ruling, said he had no right to do so.

I saw my baby she threw her arms around my neck and said, 'I love you, daddy, I love you,' said Burns in his testimony. "The day Mrs. Hutchins took her away, Claire said I must be sure to come for her, I love her dearly and want her."

LOVE FINDS WAY FOR HER

Agnes De Angelis, 16, of Revere (staff photo) was disturbed to find someone had notified the marriage bureau in Boston that Joseph Simone, whom she was to marry, had a wife in Italy, but it was soon all explained and Cupid reigned supreme.

FAMOUS ACTOR BARES STORY OF ILL-LUCK

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 21 (AP)—The death of Theodore Roberts, "grand old man" of the stage and screen, has lifted the curtain on a series of his life.

His will, made public today, reveals that he left his estate, valued at "more than $100,000," to his nephew, Edward Roberts Higgins of New York city, with the provision that Roberts had "suffered ill-luck" as an exile from home.

In his experience, "I remember neither affection nor sympathy from any member of my family until such accomplishment had been achieved by me that affection became a part of pride in relationship," Roberts said in the will, which was made here September 17, 1926.

During the darkest hour of my life, go word of sympathy or offer of help from any member of my family came to me, and I hungered for it as the wanderer in the desert thirsts for water. The pride that kept me silent as a neglected and unwanted child stayed with me through life, through many vicissitudes, and kept me silent even while in a prison cell.

Now, that I am beyond the influence of all earthly things, I want these words said. If they leave any unpleasant atmosphere over me, memory, so be it. Of his family, Higgins, shared "a kindred isolation" from the family. Higgins was designated to be the executor without bond.

The veteran actor, who was buried here Tuesday with many of the most prominent persons of the motion picture industry paying him respect, enjoyed his nephew to "accept my belongings to the discretion of my family, in accordance with your best judgment."

Roberts served six months in prison in New York when he could not pay alimony to the first Mrs. Roberts, who had divorced him.

LITTLE HIT-RUN VICTIM

Joseph Hardy, Jr., 6, of Eastern ave., Malden, who was struck by hit and run autoist near his home.

The boy was left lying in the street with his skull fractured. His condition is serious.

FEAR LASSMAN, GRID STAR, MAY NOT RECOVER

Al Lassman of Cambridge, the 21, Y. U. grid star injured in the game with Carnegie Tech a month ago, may never completely regain his former health, friends declared today.

Recent denials that Lassman is paralyzed were branded as untrue. His friends also declared that the football star's mind is far from normal.

Several of Lassman's acquaintances who succeeded in running the gauntlet of guards who stand watch over him at French Hospital, New York, declare his dream of becoming a heavyweight fighter and competing for Gene Tunney's vacated title has been blasted forever.

Parkinson attending Lassman says there are several blood clots on his brain, which are being slowly dissipated. Moreover, if these clots should harden the grid star will be permanently crippled, they say.

Lassman, who went from Tilden Technical School and Cushing Academy to New York University as a potential all-American tackle, was injured in the game at Pittsburgh 23 days ago.

A week ago denial was made that he was paralyzed, physicians declaring he had "suffered an impairment of functioning on his left side, but at no time could it be construed as paralysis." It was added at that time, "this condition is improving daily and he now has absolute use of his left side and arm."

The statement said, "It was learned, 'that Lassman spent almost every weekend in a hospital recovering from head and neck injuries incurred in football. His present case seems to be an accumulation of these repeated bumps.'"

'WIFE INITIALLY' TRICK FAILS TO HALT WEDDING

Somewhere tried to rousen the path of romance trod by Agnes De Angelis, 16, and her betrothed, Joseph Simone, 25, but love finds a way—oh ho—and they will be married Christmas day.

Agnes lives in Gage ave., Revere, and Joe in Euclid st., Roxbury. Hand in hand the couple walked into the marriage license bureau at Boston City Hall and announced their intention to marry. The clerk informed them a telephone call had come from "the Revere police" warning against issuing a license to Simone because he already had a wife in Italy.

Agnes was perturbed. Joe was furious. Revere police headquarters denied sending such a call.

The girl recalled then she had discarded a Lynn editor last summer who threatened to "get even" with her some day. Simone entreated his small army of relatives to convince city authorities he has no wife.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.

"MY dear, I'm TERRIBLE STILLNESS at this point—I mean I'm positively GURGLING with GLEE because the FUNNIEST incident happened when I and Arab got together the other day at CHRISTENING PUPPY—was, my dear, because you know ARAB insisted on CHRISTENING the poor darling by BREAKING A BOTTLE over his like there do a SHIP or something in SPITE of the fact that I FRANKLY pointed out it was HIGHLY IMPROPER because he isn't a SEA DOG but, my dear, Arab came BURGING FORTH with this TREMENDOUS BOTTLE, all SIZE for the CHRISTENING and I was HUNGRY, having forgotten because the whole IDEA was so frightfully QUANT, sort of, do you know what I meant? Well, ANYWAYS, I NEEZED this great BOTTLE and Arab asked TIPPY—was who looked too DEPRESSED about the situation and kept RETARDING me with the most REPROACHFUL PRESENT you've ever OBSERVED but ANYWAYS, my dear, Arab held him UP and I prepared to DO THE DEDD in FEAR and TREMBLING but I simply HAD to close my EYES and, my dear, RECONSIDER Later when I'd brought DOWN this BOTTLE HEAVILY on something I discovered I'd dropped Arab with—JESUS I LAUGHED shouted I DUB THEE JONES!

2 HIT-AND-RUN VICTIMS DYING

Hit-and-run driver collections (estimated) amounting $32 per cent today, police covering one alleged driver out of three sought as a result of three accidents in 15 hours.

Meanwhile a guest at the Touraine Hotel and a Malden boy of 14 are near death in hospitals, while a 20-year-old Winthrop veteran is suffering severe injuries.

Early today police arrested Frederick Field, 22, of Rutland st., South End, and arraigned him in Roxbury court as driver of the car that struck Ralph Anthony, 35, the hotel guest, in Huntington ave., near Leewood ave.

Field pleaded not guilty to charges of operating negligently and going from an accident without identifying himself. The case was continued to December 25.

The victim is in Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, lacerations of the scalp and body injuries. Another hit-and-run victim is Joseph Hardy, Jr., 6, of Eastern ave., Malden. He was found unconscious in Phillips st. At Malden Hospital it was found his skull was fractured. Joseph, 16-year-old, was struck by a hit-and-run driver in Kenneland st. near Washington st. He is at the City Hospital with head injuries.

ANTIQUES SALE LOOSENS SOCIETY'S PURSE STRINGS—BETTY ALDEN

SOCIETY OFF ON ITS MORNING SHOPPING ROUND KNOWS full well where it speaks when it says, "James, the antique sale." It knows of a certainty that in the Greener collection that fills the attic, utility "different" something for the bride who is always in the effort to be found. And that those alarming gaps in the Christmas list may be successfully checked off in unbarred half hours. And must of all it is pleasantly aware that one may browse and shop and so become possessed of long-desired treasures during serene mornings in the New York Building, where the North Street school's antique sale moves successfully on.

Filene's Automatic Bargain BASEMENT

Santa makes a Discovery

Santa Claus has just made a discovery! He has just heard that he is not the only good fellow that gives things away.

There's a store known as Filene's Basement that specializes in bargains—that is famous for its low-priced goods and it's a bona fide rule that every piece of merchandise that doesn't sell in 30 selling days is given away to charitable institutions.

Of course, knowing that we will take severe losses if the first price is not right, we watch our step very carefully in buying only the right kind of bargains and we make doubly sure we price things low enough to sell out quickly.

If merchandise does not sell quickly it is marked down under our famous automatic plan 25% after 12 selling days, 50% after 18 selling days, 75% after 24 selling days, and what is left over after 30 selling days is given to charitable institutions.

Our aim is constantly to lower your cost of living and naturally, at Christmas time, your cost of giving. Large institutions or individuals seeking pieces in great numbers to help needy folks will find Filene's Basement the place to make up their Christmas baskets.

Just think how much more you can give by buying our kind of bargains—in other words, you can give more as well as buy more if you spend here. Are you going to give "some one" a Christmas "basket?"

NANCY LOUISE CARR, DAUGHTER OF THE HOUGHTON CARRS

"GOLD" CARDS DANGLE

From antique chairs, from toasty, soft, brocade hangings, on massive chimney pieces and on the graceful upspringing brackets of Spanish wall lights. On so many many pieces that the long-delayed and just-arrived shipment from England is welcome as the flowers of spring. And what the connoisseurs into further buying, such well-timed ones as Mrs. George C. Lee, the J. Parker Butts, Mr. and Mrs. St. Grenville Langdon, and Mrs. Hendrika Hellet Whitman, who shop so persistently and consistently at the antique sale.

MRS. WHITMAN, THE PIC-TURE of brightly-etched animation, was busily demolishing the Christmas list to utter nothingness yesterday. And that task done to her entire satisfaction, there was certain much admired treasures gathered in Spain, in France, Italy or England just calling aloud to be taken to Mrs. Whitman's charming "Butter Palace" shop up in Union Park st. This thing of shoppes about the Antique sale for one's own home turns more than one social passage into an almost every-day visitor. Mrs. Lee is in the midst of that most fascinating of experiences, "doing" a house, an antique sale, the choice of antiques marked for delivery at the Lee's Beacon at establishment.

THE GODFREY LOWELL, CABOTS have much the same idea in mind as Mrs. Lee, that of acquiring objects d'art, brocade and period pieces for their town house. They were recent visitors at the sale, and went away the poorer in purse but the richer in possessions. I saw Horace Morison moving through the apartments and passages that make the place look for all the world like a museum, so filled are they with rare and lovely things. The Morgans, Mrs. Louisburg, who house down in old Italian and whose Mr. Grosvenor stopped about Italy for many of his antiques it is not to be wondered that many pieces are exactly suited to the Morison family.

HATS OFF TO THE JUNIOR League! Never a philanthropy but has her fair attendance and enthusiastic support. The Antique sale is no exception. Morning and afternoon some of the leaders are on hand—most businesslike and expert, guiding the intending purchaser or about through the maze of riches. Miss Fretella Rhodes devotes thus many precious hours that ordinarily would be dedicated to troussau gathering. Miss Ellen Hollowell does likewise.

the scene is cleared of the home-from-school-and-college sets. But when the last special has passed away a Smith and Vassar and small brother and sister are back on their scholastic round once more the dab comes into her own again into the very center of the limelight, there to prattle brilliantly, but briefly Her season is on the wane.

LITTLE NEW 1923 ALREADY carries a sweet burden of debutante dates. Mrs. Alexander S. Porter gives a luncheon for Miss Mac the Wiggleworth on Jan. 4. The day immediately preceding, Mrs. Edward N. Carpenter entertains. In the same grand fashion for Miss Betty Carpenter, at the Algonquin Club. Mrs. Manley Ives gives a dance on the 7th of January, and on the 9th Mrs. Frederick Easton is dinner hostess for Miss Adelaide Moore Brown and Miss Justine Phipps, preceding the large and brilliant ball the Harry Hill Thursdays.

give at the Somerset for their attractive daughter, Miss Winifred.

IT SEEMS QUITE FITTING AND usually that the English nation, Herbert Heyner, should calculate first Boston appearance is entirely sponsored by the resident aristocracy and by eminent persons now in residence here. His Excellency the British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard head the list and second on it are the British Consul-General and Mrs. General Gray. Mr. Heyner elopes January 1 in the Hotel Statler, and the Madames Randolph Appleton, Mrs. Spaulding, William H. "Cuddie" Taylor, Aldrich, Charles Foxworth, Horace Binney, George C. Cabot, Allen Curtis and Alexander Whiteside are among the many who so kindly bear their names.

Mail Pilot, Martyr to Duty, Dies in Blast

Chicago, Dec. 21 (NS)—Leo McGinn, Chicago air mail pilot, was dead today, a martyr to his task of trying to "get through" with the mail. Details of the tragedy in this were wired to air mail officials here.

Flying into the teeth of a blinding blizzard, McGinn crashed into a barn at Huron. The impact exploded his gasoline tank and set fire to both the plane and the barn. Despite forlornish aides, the pilot left Cleveland at 2:53 last evening. Near Huron, with a 30-mile gale dead against him, he lost his bearings. The gusting beacon lights of the air route were obscured by the storm.

He dropped flares to get his bearings, but came too near the north. His plane grazed the top of a tree and then crashed.

everything to him if he could only feel that our comradeship was an established thing, to last always."

Greene is married and has two children. He only recently resigned as chairman of the trustees of Wellesley College.

He also resigned from the directorate of the Suffolk Savings Bank and as a trustee of the Museum of Fine Arts. In the former case he gave as his reason that he was leaving town.

Up and down State and Wall sts., the financial districts of Boston and New York, where Greene is a dominant figure because of his connection with more than a score of industrial concerns, public utility corporations and banks, the suit caused considerable stir.

To the general public outside of New England, the magnate is perhaps best known for his declaration at the time of the big Lawrence textile strike of 1912, when he attracted country-wide attention by blaming the strike on women's adoption of the "feminine skirt."

Mrs. Trudel, who lives in an apartment on West 59th st., New York city, and has a summer home at Single Point, Long Island, N. Y., which she says the magnate gave her, filed her action in the New York courts, where Greene, it was learned, has already made a reply in formal documents.

MAKES A DENIAL.

The woman's attorneys are Yankauer & Sperry of New York. The papers they filed for their client charge that an agreement was signed by Greene on April 23, 1926; this alleged agreement is on file with other papers in the suit.

Mrs. Trudel, interviewed today at her New York apartment, declared the last $100,000 payment she received was in August; and that the suit was "received" from Greene that "he would no longer be financially responsible" to her.

She would not discuss the difference which finally arose between her and Greene to Sperry or Walter D. Tankauer, of her counsel, who stated only:

"We feel that our client has a meritorious claim. For the rest of the story the papers in court must speak for themselves. The insurance of more than $1,000,000. His policies are said to aggregate $1,000,000. He appeared to be in temporary retirement today, as far as inquiry was made in Boston and New York addresses revealed."

He was not to be found either at his Boston residence or the one he maintains in New York or at any of his various business addresses in these two cities. Business associates said he would be found at the office of Edwin Farnham Greene & Co., 40 Worth st., New York, but he did not put in an appearance there.

At his home in Chestnut st., Beacon Hill, a social secretary, who was sent to the door by an elderly occupant, said he was in New York and that Mrs. Greene could not be seen because she had been ill. Besides his business connections, Greene is listed in the Directory of Directors for 1928 as a trustee of Green University, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the New England Conservatory of Music.

FOSDICK GOING TO MIDDLESEX COURT

Judge Frederick W. Fosdick, for three years in charge of the criminal docket of Suffolk Superior Court, terminated his duty there today and will go to Middlesex County to perform similar tasks.

In Suffolk County he has disposed of 13,372 cases, a record. When the justice finished today's list and left the bench, he returned to the courtroom at the request of Deputy Sheriff William McDermott, and in the presence of clerks, officers of the court, probation officers and interpreters, Patrick W. Melia, court crier, presented him a replica of the wheel of the frigate Constitution, the bronze of which was formerly on that ship.

OFFICIALS SEE FULLER IN CITY JOB PROTEST

Headed by City Messenger Edward J. Leary with his silk hat and mace, a mixed delegation of city councilors and representatives marched on the State House today and protested to Governor Clegg at the action of Civil Service Commissioner Elliot M. Goodwin in discharging city employees for failing to maintain court records in their applications.

The conference was brought to an abrupt conclusion at 1:14 when the members of the City Council hurried back to City Hall with Councilor John P. Dowd denouncing Mayor Nichols for "trickery" in calling the special meeting of the Council for noon.

seedings by asking the Governor to prevent the wholesale discharge of city employees because of minor court records for offenses which occurred years ago.

He declares that instead of "picking" on the laboring man the Civil Service Commission should attack department heads. Councilor Dowd said there are 18,000 city employees under civil service, and ventured the statement that 80 percent of them had committed some mistake manor from childhood on. The Governor then gave Com. Goodwin an opportunity to reply. "This body of protestants," Goodwin said, "is laboring under a complete misapprehension. We are looking up records of men on the eligible list, not those now employed and are investigating their characters and records. I have no choice in the matter. I must live up to the law."

SELECTIONS TO JOIN IN HEARST CAROL BROADCAST MONDAY NIGHT

FAVORITES OF OLD ON PROGRAM

Scores and scores of years ago—so long since that the exact date cannot be fixed—a little band of musicians gathered in the tiny church of the village of Oberdorf, Germany, and sang a song of the birth of the Child of Bethlehem.

On Christmas Eve, this calendar year of 1928, the echo of their song will be heard, sung by millions of voices in the comfortable Christmas Carol Contest, sponsored by the Hearst newspapers and broadcast by radio.

Carol, that originated in Oberdorf is that beautiful refrain, "Silent Night," composed by the town's schoolmaster, Franz Gruber. On this Christmas Eve this musical gem will flow in a wave of melody from New York and Boston to California from Canada to Mexico.

For an entire hour, beginning at 11 o'clock, the first of song, in which the celebrated Paulist Choristers and the Mediaevalists, two famous vocal groups, will penetrate the homes of millions of citizens.

ALL INVITED TO JOIN

As the old, familiar carols are broadcast, everyone in the listening audience will be invited to join in the singing. Thus there will be formed a choir of millions, singing millions in the greatest spiritual song service the world has ever known.

Families whose homes are isolated may not find it easy to take part in Christmas Eve gatherings in their own communities.

This year, however, the spirit of Christmas will come winging its way through the air, reaching bedrooms, living rooms and humble kitchens as inspiringly as it does outdoor assemblies or huge auditoriums.

In order that the hosts of carols may receive the utmost enjoyment from this history-making radio service, the Hearst newspapers will issue, with their Christmas Eve editions, descriptive leaflets, Christmas Carol Booklets containing the details of the program, and words and music to be sung by the audience.

BOOKLETS FREE

There will be no charge for the booklets. They will be the Christmas gift of the Hearst newspapers to their readers.

The Rev. H. Parker Calhoun, nationally known preacher and former president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, will conduct the grand carol service.

The soloists and chorists whose voices will be heard over the radio are members of two of the world's most famous musical organizations, the Paulist Choristers and the Mediaevalists of New York. Fr. Finn, director of the former group, will also preside at the organ.

CHIMES TO PEAL

From 11 p.m., Eastern standard time, until midnight, Dr. Calhoun, the Choristers and the Mediaevalists will present a program of remarkable beauty. At exactly midnight the voices of the singers will be heard for a moment in the chiming of Trinity church, New York, peal out the ancient message of "Peace on Earth."

In Greater Boston, those who wish to join in the counterpoint carol chorus will receive their radio accompaniment from station WJLB. They will receive their Christmas Carol booklets with the Monday editions of the Boston Evening American.

Dinner for Jewish Community Fund

Political professional and business leaders of Boston will be guests Sunday night at a dinner at the Copley Plaza to mark the inauguration of a campaign by the Federal Jewish Charities to raise $500,000.

The proposed fund is to be used for the common good of 10 Jewish philanthropic and welfare organizations. This is the first time in the history of the Federated Jewish Charities, that a drive has been made for a "community chest" rally for one specific institution.

Don't Let Flu Get a Foothold: Check at Start

Fight Germs With Vapors and Avoid Dozing

Most cases of flu start with just a simple cold. If neglected the cold lowers the physical resistance and makes the body easy prey for influenza, grip and pneumonia.

The only safe plan is to start Vicks VapoRub treatment at once. Put a little Vicks VapoRub up each nostril and sniff well back. If convenient, also place some Vicks in a bowl of hot water, and inhale the steaming vapors. At bedtime, rub Vicks on your throat and chest. Vicks then brings relief in 2 ways: (1) Its ingredients, vaporized by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the infected air passages; (2) It acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and pain.

Asks for Probe of Legal Holidays

Investigation of the subject of legal holidays in Massachusetts, with a view to making such "road" statutes as will best accord with the history and traditions of the Commonwealth, the promotion of patriotism, the safeguarding of the interests of business and industry and the general public convenience, is called for in a resolve filed with the clerk of the Senate by Senator Henry L. Kinsale of Quincy.

B. U. Students at Service Today

The first all-university Christmas chapel service to be held in recent years by Boston University takes place this noon at the New Old

South Church in Copley sq. This is the last all-university function before the final closing of all departments for the Christmas recess and a large number of students will attend this affair before catching trains and boats for other cities.

Boy Sentenced for Wounding Woman

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 21.—Arthur Dubau, 14, was sentenced to the Sookness School for boys until he is 21 years old, for hitting Mrs.

Elizabeth Slack with a bullet from his .33-caliber rifle. The boy, with two companions, was playing with the rifle when one of the bullets struck the woman as she was standing at a window in her home. She was reported to be in a serious condition in Pawtucket hospital.

Hanging Victim

Fort Fairfield, Me., Dec. 21.—The body of Samuel Coburn, 77, a widower, was found hanging from a tree a short distance from the home of his niece, Rose Burns, with whom he lived.

ANTI-WAR PACT SURE TO LEAD IN SENATE

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Kellogg anti-war treaty by which all great nations renounce war, will be ratified by the Senate before a final vote is taken on the administration's "big navy" bill, it became apparent today.

The Senate action in postponing debate on both measures till January 3 dashed the hopes of administration leaders for enactment first of the new cruiser measure. This would have made their task for easier than to obtain its passage once the Senate has approved a treaty which, its sponsors contend, will settle all war between the great nations of the earth.

The Senate "irreconcilables" would come the delay as a period in which to seek recruits for their resolution, announcing publicly a set of terms under which America would ratify the treaty.

Under these terms the treaty would not involve the United States in any other treaty, would not restrict her right to act in self-defense and would not compel her to take punitive action against any offending nation.

The fate of the resolution remains doubtful, although administration leaders predict its defeat.

The irreconcilables hope to win a majority in the debate after Christmas. They contend the treaty is

9 Eggs a Day Make Mainer So "Mean" Wife Quits Him

Portland, Dec. 21 (AP)—Ephraim J. Brunswick was disclosed as one of the world's most consistent egg-eaters by his wife, Ezelle, during a divorce hearing in Superior Court today.

Mrs. Brunswick testified her husband's principal diet was three eggs at each meal every day in the year. He complained if she "wasted" any eggs by using them as a cake, she said.

She sought the divorce not because of the many eggs she had to prepare for J. Albert but of charges of cruelty and misconduct.

out a posture toward justice and that its real meaning and danger lies in the international correspondence that accompanied its negotiation.

The opposition to the naval bill will be led by Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska and King (D) of Utah, both of whom favor the treaty.

Much stress will be placed upon an Italian note under which Great Britain reserved the right to defend against her territorial possessions.

The irreconcilables will demand the same terms for American.

$1500 Fine and Jail for Boozie 'Runner'

Portland, Dec. 21 (AP)—Joseph "Bert" of Millport, N. H., today paid a fine of $1500 for smuggling more than 25 cases of liquor across the border to Keegan, N. H., from New Brunswick several months ago. He also was sentenced to serve six months.

GIRLS IDENTIFY 2 YOUTHS AS ABDUCTORS

Whitman, Dec. 21—The two young girls who disappeared while on their way to church and then told a story of riding 24 hours with two boys today went to Plymouth County Jail with Police Chief Phinney and, according to the girls, identified two Rockland youths.

The girls saw Martin Hutchinson, 14, and Ruth Jones, 14, high school pupils and singers at the Congregational Church. They disappeared Sunday evening and returned Monday.

Out of a group of 12 men at the jail Chief Phinney said they studied out James A. Tippins and Edward S. Toner both of Rockland. The youths were arrested early Tuesday on a charge of breaking and entering a Rockland lunch room and are held for the grand jury.

Several serious charges will be made, according to Chief Phinney, who said he connected the youths with the story told by the girls because he recalled seeing the Rockland youths in Whitman Sunday.

63 Trapped in Japan Mine

Tokyo, Japan, Dec. 21 (AP)—Sixty-three miners were trapped today by an explosion in the Harutori coal mine near Kishino, Yamanashi Prefecture. Five followed the explosion and the fate of the miners could not be determined.

Love Flight Girl May Come East in Plane

Ruth McConnell, whose dramatic flight across the continent attracted wide attention, shown in Associated Press telephoto as she arrived in San Francisco.

On a train she beat an airplane pursuer to the coast. She laid her flight on efforts to induce her to marry "a rich old man she did not love."

San Francisco, Dec. 21 (AP)—Besieged by reporters, Miss Ruth McConnell, who fled here from the East pursued by an airplane carrying Dr. David Meeker of Rochester, N. Y., was in a hurry to get away.

Why she hurried here and why she was pursued by the plane was not yet definitely cleared up. It was hinted she is in ill-health and her relatives wish to keep a watch over her. Another theory is that she had to escape an unwelcome love affair.

Dr. Meeker, who made an unsuccessful attempt to catch up with her in a plane, is said to be in the employ of Kenneth B. Custer, New York millionaire. He arrived tonight by plane.

"This girl is very sick," Meeker asserted. "I have been a friend of the family for years and know her intimately. I am sure that it will not be long before she will be well and permit her to run about the country promiscuously."

"Romance? Bah! The idea is absurd, I'm married," Meeker asserted. "I have been a friend of the family for years and know her intimately. I am sure that it will not be long before she will be well and permit her to run about the country promiscuously."

Meeker's wife, who was with him when he was last seen, said she was in the employ of Custer.

Meeker's wife, who was with him when he was last seen, said she was in the employ of Custer.

The "love angle" in the affair is jumbled. Miss McConnell asserted "someone" wanted to marry her.

Millionaire is "Only a Very Good Friend," He Says

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 21 (AP)—Kenneth B. Custer, millionaire, railroad official and dairy owner, today asserted Miss McConnell was dangerously ill and that David C. Meeker's cross-country pursuit of her was made merely to help her.

Meeker's wife, who was with him when he was last seen, said she was in the employ of Custer.

U. S. 'ANTHEM' IN NEW BLOCH SYMPHONY

Boston music lovers today had their first chance to pass on the "new national anthem" which Ernest Bloch, Swiss composer, takes better suited to the United States than "The Star Spangled Banner."

Bloch's widely heralded historical symphony, which sets to music the development of America, from the landing of the Pilgrims, through the war era, and to a promised reclamation, was to be given its Boston premiere by the Boston Symphony Orchestra led by Serge Koussevitzky.

"America" is the title of Bloch's composition, which has already won a $2500 prize and has been highly praised by New York critics.

It concludes with the "up-to-date" anthem, which has excited so much controversy.

GENEROUS OFFERS OF AID GIVEN IN GIRL'S QUEST OF YULETIDE "IT"

HELPING HANDS STRETCH OUT TO ASSIST 'UNFORTUNATE'

I went to the Common first and joined a band of the city's unfortunate, the homeless, out-of-work men and women who spend the long winter days on the benches, reading scraps of old newspapers and snoring in stales of discarded clothing. I chose my bench and sat down. They looked at me and I looked at them. We were sorry for one another but we had nothing more to offer than a few friendly words.

"It's a cold day to be out," said the old man beside me, and I agreed to let him pull my coat collar up around my ears. An old woman leaning by stopped a moment to tell me, "You'll catch your death of cold if you sit there," she warned me.

She left me there and walked across the Public Gardens, and out to Huntington Ave. As I walked along people turned to look at my rag in play or horror, but it was not until I turned off to West Newton st. that anyone spoke to me.

I had thrust my hands into my sleeves and was walking along with my eyes on the ground when a man of about 30 spoke.

"Here, Mike," he said hurriedly, looking quickly about him. "There's no one was watching." Take this, Coffee and Cookies Help to Cheer Girl Along Her Cold, Weary Way

Continuing down the street, I spotted a young woman who was wheeling a baby carriage. I asked her where I could buy a pair of stockings.

"If you come where you can buy a good, cheap pair. It's hard to get alone in a strange city," she added, glancing at my clothes.

I walked along a little way with her, and she directed me to a store on Massachusetts Ave. where I went in and bought a new pair of silk stockings for 20 cents.

I felt less like a tramp with my new stockings, but they were not the any warmer than the old ones had. I turned into a little street to get out of the wind. A gray-haired woman came down the street toward me. She turned in at an apartment house just as I was going by. She turned around, she asked me, then turned around, she asked me, then turned around, she asked me.

"My! you look cold," she exclaimed.

"I am cold," I admitted, pulling my coat around me.

"Come in with me and get warm," she said at once, and I followed her into the apartment on Chardon Street.

"It's terribly untidy," she apologized, "but it's warm."

I sat down in a big armchair. "You're very kind," I began, but she wouldn't listen to me. She left me for a few minutes and came back with some coffee and cookies.

"It's fresh coffee," she said. "It's just what was left over from my breakfast, but it will do you good, warm you up a bit."

I drank the coffee and ate the cookies gratefully. She didn't ask me any questions, nor watch me while I ate, but nestled around the room, getting things straight.

I had finished, she asked me if I had had plenty.

"That's good," she said, when I said, "Yes."

"I am cold," she said, when I said, "Yes."

"I am cold," she said, when I said, "Yes."

and buy yourself a pair of stockings. He handed me a dollar bill. I hesitated for a moment.

"Take it," he insisted. "You can go around like that."

I took it and thanked him. He would not tell me his name, but I took down the number of his car and found later that he is a contractor in a suburb of Boston.

I had only gone a few steps beyond him when someone ran after me. It was a workman who was with the man who had given me the dollar.

"Excuse me, Miss," he said, "but I have some things to show you. I am and where you come from."

"I'm sorry," I replied. "You're rather not tell me your name. I'm out of luck right now, but I can take care of myself. I've taken the dollar. That's all I want to do."

"Why don't you tell him your name?" asked the boy. "He's a contractor and he knows lots of people. Perhaps he could get you some kind of a job. It might be much to start with, but it would be a start. A girl can't go around like this, you know. It isn't safe."

I didn't tell him, and when he found he could get nothing further from me he went back to his boss.

I told him I had eaten all I could. "Now just sit there, and get good and warm before you go out again."

I tried to thank her as I left, but she wouldn't let me. "I'd like to have someone do the work of a man," she said. "I'd like to have someone do the work of a man."

I went back to Huntington Ave. and walked down to the corner of Stuart and Berkeley st. The traffic officer there, whose name I later found to be Fred Denny, spoke to me as I was crossing the street, and asked me if there was anything I needed.

I told him my story, and he directed me to Police Headquarters on Berkeley st.

There I found a policeman at the information desk. His name is Rich and Southworth, as I discovered afterwards.

"What would you do?" I asked him. "If you were broke and out of a job?"

"If you live around here?" he inquired.

I shook my head.

"Been working here?" I asked.

"I worked for a year."

"How long have you been out of a job?"

"Three months."

"What have you been doing these three months?"

"Oh, just hanging around."

"Have you lived clean, decent, on the level?"

I nodded.

"Well, I'll tell you what to do," he said. "Go down the street here to the W. C. T. U. There's a big bunch of people there and they'll take care of you and tell you what to do."

He explained to me in detail how to get there, and before I left he drew me aside.

"Remember you go," he whispered. "Take this, and get yourself a good square meal."

He handed me a dollar bill.

"At little."

"Well, go along into the dining-room, and they'll fix you before you go to bed."

"I haven't any money," I said.

He laughed and patted my shoulder.

"We're not asking for money," he said. "I went into the dining-room. Supper was all over, but they brought me a huge pitcher of hot cocoa, a pile of loaves, white bread, and a plate of cake."

"Supper is over," said the woman in whose hands the nutron had placed me. "But you can have all you want. Just let me know if you want any more."

After supper I went into a parlor beside the front room to wait until my room was ready. There were four or five aged women waiting in the same room. They were talking and laughing in low voices. One of them offered me a pinch of snuff. Another leaned over and asked me if I were lonely.

There were some children playing in the hall. It was very warm and comfortable.

Given a Joyous "Merry Christmas!" as She Leaves Home's Hospitable Doors

At a quarter of seven I went upstairs and scrubbing to pay for my board and meals, she knew that I wanted to leave early, so she said, "Just go up and clean your room."

"Just go up and clean your room," she said, "and help the others if you have time."

So after I had made up my bed and put my room in order, I borrowed a pail of water and a wet mop and washed down a flight of stairs.

As I came down stairs with my coat and hat on, ready to leave, three old women were standing by the door.

"Are you going out this morning?" one asked me. I nodded.

"Good-bye," I said.

"Good-bye," all replied, and as I opened the door they called after me, "Good luck!"

WOMEN HEAR OF CHARLES RIVER BASIN PLANS

MEMBERS of the City Federation which comprises 11 clubs, representing 50,000 members had the pleasure of hearing Henry L. Harriman tell what the Metropolitan Planning Board is proposing to do with the city of developing the Charles River Basin.

The new improvements will be for beauty, recreation and utility. The utility will be in the form of improved roads, and complete system of the dam to be at either side of the river. This will insure the taking down of the rapids and the rapids made the wharves of Beacon at the widening of the Esplanade and its planning and beautification.

The stand of Mrs. Watson having walk along the Esplanade, three miles of a sloping beach, and on the lower part of the Esplanade, near Longfellow bridge is to be a formal landing and garden. There will be one or two undergrounds so that vehicles will avoid the congestion of road crossing. There will be one at Longfellow bridge and one at Mass. Ave. at either end of the bridge and Cambridge and Nashua streets to avoid traffic congestion.

James Donovan, chairman of the High School of Commerce, and speaker, stated: "The Boston Health Masters' Association is carrying on an active and aggressive campaign in character education. Through their pamphlet, 'Education for Citizenship' they seek the cordial cooperation of parents."

EXPLAINS ITS AIMS
In general, the aims of secondary education are to introduce the child to the world, to sharpen the intellect, to emphasize the outer emblem of character, to refine the moral sense, to develop the physical, to fortify the character, to provide for worthy use of leisure, to win for social and economic efficiency, and to contribute to worthy membership in the community.

"Our training," declared Mr. Donovan, "must not only consider the material organism, but the intellect, personality which includes the intellect, the will, the feeling, and the soul."

"Children are what they are as a result of their environment."

Hoover, Homeward Bound 12 Days, Is Further Away

Rio De Janeiro, Dec. 21 (INS)—Although the Hoover gang will party had been 12 days homeward bound since leaving Valparaiso, Chile, they were farther from New York today than at any other time since the tour began.

Rio is about 2900 miles east of New York and almost 4000 miles south. Therefore, Rio is more than 1000 miles farther away from New York than Valparaiso by the Panama Canal route.

A result of the three great forces of intolerance, environment, and personal effort, any defects accumulated must be offset by will power. Each child should enter the world with endurance, enthusiasm, and eagerness to serve.

Miss Elizabeth Herby spoke briefly on the science of city planning. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Carl L. Watson.

Mrs. William Martin Wheeler, chairman in charge, set a precedent in the way of refreshments by serving coffee and good old-fashioned "silkies."

Young President FINDS HOLD UP IS ONLY A RAID

Drawing his revolver, Traffic Officer Jerry Donovan in Magoun square, Somerville, rushed to a store nearby to investigate a hold-up.

To his surprise, the "holdup man" was Lieut. Charles J. Sherry and Sgt. Augustine F. Sherry of the Somerville Police.

Lieut. Sherry was standing with his service revolver in his hand while the other two men, who were being searched by the sergeant for a marked bill.

The officer had sent a decoy in to play a joke with the marked money. They followed and Dutton is reported to have objected to being searched. There was some confusion and the other two men stepped from a backroom, came to the street and saw the officer. Dutton was arrested, charged with carrying a dangerous weapon.

The police reported finding a supply under the floor.

2 STAGE STARS SUCCEED IN HOLIDAY

By LOUELLA G. PARSONS
Concert, 100, by Turner series

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21—It is certainly the trend of the times and significant when Cecil De Mille goes to the stage for Charles Bickford and Kay Johnson to play the leads in "Dynamite."

Some way we sort of expect the leads to stick along with the old regime and choose for his picture those actors who have achieved success in the silent drama. Both Bickford and Miss Johnson are newcomers in the movie and their selection comes after a search of months for just the right cast.

Miss Johnson is well known locally where she has appeared in a number of stage plays and Charles Bickford is equally well known in New York, where he just finished an engagement on Broadway in "Code of Light."

Edward G. Robinson and Carl Lombard have the other two important leads. Bickford is to be a parasite, that of Bickford's in "Dynamite," based on an original story by Jeanie MacPherson, will be a tale, incidentally, "Dynamite" to be made by Cecil De Mille and since it goes about the same subject, it is to be looked as if we may expect other producers to follow suit.

These leading men took up the microphone and spoke to the audience. "If you see them, now you don't. If they have a venue all the producers put in a bid for them because if they haven't, they are just plain out of luck. Grant Withers can't do it."

At the moment he is Hollywood's most popular here. He finished his tour in the movie and "Children" in the time to be engaged to play the lead in "The Girl and the Warrior," a Vitaphone.

John Davidson, who went East to stage Christmas, is another member of the "Dynamite" cast. He is directing and Warner Lord writing the story.

Robert Lord, who is being groomed by Warner for stardom, for he is now under contract to Warner.

"The Girl and the Warrior," the bottler who does all the mile, will be played by Robert Ellis for Universal. Next to the part of the hoodlum, which Grant Withers plays, the villain has the fastest role in the entire play. He is the sort of fellow who makes no good to "nobody."

All of Hollywood's most accomplished actors were eager to be in the picture. "Dynamite" is a picture that should be seen by the next.

The girls were so stiff they had to call in the police and buy them. That is the way they were in the movies now that the talkies are here.

One of the most persistent rumors in Hollywood is to the effect that Eugene O'Brien will play opposite Norma Talmadge in the William J. Locke story for United Artists, Miss Talmadge, who is in Paris awaiting Christmas, and her mother and sister, is expected to start work in January and O'Brien is slated for the same picture, as our gossip humors say.

After this, Eugene is coming back to Hollywood to occupy his home on Hollywood boulevard, where Mr. and Mrs. Edward Earle have been living. He will be here shortly after the holidays.

One of the little Hollywood birds who frequently roosts unseen and keeps things in his pocket is a man named Charles. Charles is a man who is expected to play the part of the villain in the picture, "Dynamite," which is being played by Samuel Bronston for the next time.

Held in Raid

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21—It is certainly the trend of the times and significant when Cecil De Mille goes to the stage for Charles Bickford and Kay Johnson to play the leads in "Dynamite."

Some way we sort of expect the leads to stick along with the old regime and choose for his picture those actors who have achieved success in the silent drama. Both Bickford and Miss Johnson are newcomers in the movie and their selection comes after a search of months for just the right cast.

Miss Johnson is well known locally where she has appeared in a number of stage plays and Charles Bickford is equally well known in New York, where he just finished an engagement on Broadway in "Code of Light."

Edward G. Robinson and Carl Lombard have the other two important leads. Bickford is to be a parasite, that of Bickford's in "Dynamite," based on an original story by Jeanie MacPherson, will be a tale, incidentally, "Dynamite" to be made by Cecil De Mille and since it goes about the same subject, it is to be looked as if we may expect other producers to follow suit.

These leading men took up the microphone and spoke to the audience. "If you see them, now you don't. If they have a venue all the producers put in a bid for them because if they haven't, they are just plain out of luck. Grant Withers can't do it."

IN FERNAND'S WINDOW

A N ENTIRE LUNCH, sparse, perfect, is enjoyed with doll-sized furniture in the window of the new restaurant on the second floor of the new wing of the Hotel Astor. The window display is in a window of Ferdinand's Holiday Suite, the new, one-story, 100-room addition to the hotel, which is located on the fifth floor of the new wing. The window display is a miniature room, strikingly new, but the spectacle is further enhanced by electrical devices which simulate a fireplace blaze and which turn the lights of the room on as make-believe darkness surrounds the scene. The only thing missing is the man in the year of the room, now, to late evening.

Maloney Picked to Conquer 'X'celle in N. Y. Fray

BOSTON JIM IN SHAPE FOR GO

Maloney a 10-9 Favorite Over Irish Heavy Star; Con No Setup for Jim, However

New York, Dec. 21.—Thumping Jim Maloney of Boston, taking another step in quest of the heavyweight title here to night when he battles Con O'Kelly, champion of Ireland in the Madison Square Garden. Maloney is a 10-9 favorite in the betting.

The Irish fighter has looked better since he has fought in the last few months. He is in the best of shape for the battle with the boy from Boston. His stock took an upward jump when he defeated Johnny Husky of Cleveland in a battle at the Boston Garden a short time ago.

MALONEY'S RIGHT GOOD
Maloney has a right hand which is a real asset. He has a good left hand, but his right hand is his main weapon.

O'Kelly will make Maloney work to get close to him. Con has only appeared twice in the ring since his arrival from Ireland, but has shown enough in that pair of contests to make many experts consider him as a title contender.

The goal is a good boxer. His left hand is very good. And he has a lot of speed. He can box, and the ring with any of the big boys now fighting.

Maloney's continuous power for several months has given him judgment of distance and pace that make him the favorite in this event. JIM HAS COURAGE

And Jimmy of Boston has shown something in the last few battles in his comeback campaign which he lacked in his early ring years—a fighting heart.

He has shown an unusual amount of punching and come back for more. He showed that he is a real contender.

So Jim Maloney is picked by the betting boys to win tonight. But he'll know he has been in a real fight before he gloves his way to a win over the boy from across the pond.

City Council Dodges Sunday Sports Issue

At least four others were reported to be in hiding in another room waiting to sneak into the council chamber and vote adversely on one measure if a quorum was declared. Mayor Noble, commenting on the first act of the delinquent, said: "Poor little councilmen! A little bunch of orphans! What they want is a Christmas tree and they haven't got it."

The nine councilmen loyal enough to the committee to appear at the special meeting were President Thomas H. Green of Charlestown, Ben P. Arnold of the South Bay, Albert L. Fish of Dorchester, John L. Fitzgerald of the West End, Edward M. Gallagher of Brighton, Charles O. Koenig of West Roxbury, Peter A. Murray of Jamaica Plain, Israel Ruby of Dorchester-Roxbury and Michael J. Ward of Roxbury.

When President Green found it impossible to secure the necessary 12 members for quorum, he announced the meeting adjourned until the next regular session of the Council, which next week and because of Christmas, will be on Thursday night at the usual Monday.

The meeting lasted exactly six minutes, from 10:10 to 10:16 p. m. It was an "open house" also that night, as the council chamber was open to the public. The council chamber was open to the public. The council chamber was open to the public.

When only nine councilmen were present, City Messenger Edward J. Leary said through the rooms and corridors crying that there would be a roll call.

STAYED OUTSIDE
Outside the council chamber were Councilors Brewster, Deane, Maloney, Moley and Parkman. Unless called from birth they heard the cry of the city messenger, but they did not go in and attend the meeting.

It was an "open house" also that night, as the council chamber was open to the public. The council chamber was open to the public. The council chamber was open to the public.

According to the understanding, the city messenger called the meeting and then it was their plan to stay outside the council chamber and vote on the measure that was before the council.

HUDLES IN VOYUE
A tense atmosphere prevailed as the councilmen assembled for the meeting.

Headlines and stage-whisperings were the vogue. In an interview just before the meeting was called, Councilor Leary said that the tone of the meeting was very serious.

"While I am with the measure of Sunday sports, I shall vote for it," said Councilor Leary. "I shall vote for it."

RUBY IS 'ASTONISHED'
"For example I was astonished to find the council was given the power upon referendum to revoke the license of any proprietor, manager or person in charge of any sport or any participant therein."

"Section 21 reads: 'The license shall be revoked if the proprietor, manager or person in charge of any sport or any participant therein is convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude.'"

RULES MUST BE OBEYED
Section 2 reads: "Such sports and games shall be conducted subject to such regulations and restrictions as shall be prescribed from time to time by the City Council or the selectmen provided that they shall not prohibit the charging of admission, fees or the taking of bets."

Section 3 reads: "The license shall be revoked if the proprietor, manager or person in charge of any sport or any participant therein is convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude."

Section 4 reads: "The license shall be revoked if the proprietor, manager or person in charge of any sport or any participant therein is convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude."

Section 5 reads: "The license shall be revoked if the proprietor, manager or person in charge of any sport or any participant therein is convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude."

Section 6 reads: "The license shall be revoked if the proprietor, manager or person in charge of any sport or any participant therein is convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude."

Section 7 reads: "The license shall be revoked if the proprietor, manager or person in charge of any sport or any participant therein is convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude."

Section 8 reads: "The license shall be revoked if the proprietor, manager or person in charge of any sport or any participant therein is convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude."

Section 9 reads: "The license shall be revoked if the proprietor, manager or person in charge of any sport or any participant therein is convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude."

MR. BOSTON By Jack Conway

"SAW Governor Alvan T. Fuller at the rugged with Boxing Commissioner Eugene Buckley at the Garden show," said Mr. Boston today. "Governor Fuller has been a frequent spectator at big bouts in New York, but has passed up the Boston ring offerings."

The Governor got a real thrill out of the fight between Alvin and Vince Dundee. It was one of the best watermelon matches of the year and Alvin's victory was well deserved.

"Cuban Bobby Brown gave the Governor the most amusing. The Governor was all smiles as Brown let punches fly like rain drops all over his face."

"Nobody suggested to Eddie Mack that he seek out Mayor N. B. and that he might be able to sign up a match which would draw a record house. Eddie says he has enough trouble arranging high class matches for the Garden without getting tangled up in politician free trade."

"I know the Governor was pleased with the way he found boxing being conducted under the able supervision of Messrs. Foster, Backs and Lane."

SHELDON H. FAIRBANKS, general manager of the Garden, shipped to New York after the show to see Jim Maloney and Con O'Kelly collide in the Garden tonight. Fairbanks did not see O'Kelly in his Boston bout with Jack Cossano, but he is of the opinion that Maloney carries too many guns for the Tom O'Rourke entry.

Maloney wing tonight, Eddie Mack will try to arrange for another meeting between Sharkey and Sham. Such a bout would draw a $100,000 gate in the Boston Garden.

JOHNNY BUCKLEY, manager of Sharkey, is still asking for $150,000 for the Boston heavyweight fight and the purse for the proposed bout between Sharkey and Young Stribling at Miami, Fla. For Sharkey's top bid has been $75,000. The promoter has indicated he may raise the ante to $100,000.

SHARKEY would prefer battling Jack Dempsey to Stribling. The Tiger is rated by many experts as the world's leading heavyweight, and if Sharkey were to defeat him the Boston contender would have a clear claim to the world's championship.

"Sharkey's next start will be against K. O. Christner in New York on January 12. Christner is the young man who ruined Knute Hansen, who, for a time, was Rickard's pet in the heavyweight eliminations. Some of Rickard's millionaire friends had invested heavily in Hansen, but their dough was lost when Christner blasted Hansen on the chin in the eighth round of their tussle in Cleveland."

GOVERNOR FULLER said the Garden is a peach and a fine asset to Boston.

EDDIE MACK left for New York today to take in the Maloney-O'Kelly jam in the Garden.

Mack was particularly pleased at the $15,000 house at the McKeen-Dundee show.
